WHAT IS GOOD CITIZENSHIP

In these days of prohibition one can but wonder what is good citizenship. As a general proposition a good citizen is a man who not only respects the law, but in the final can be reported as a man who obeys the law. Going further along this same line of argument one can but wonder if a man who violates the 18th Amendment can be classed as a good citizen of these United States.

Those perched on the side lines in Chariton County the past few days are getting a few insights on the men who disregard the 18th Amendment, and each man, woman and child in Chariton County has the right to answer the question and who shall say he has not. Everyone has the right to decide for himself just what he or she thinks is good citizenship, and the great majority of the right thinking, right living people of Chariton County are making up their minds that good citizenship does not abide in the general makeup of a man who violates the 18th Amendment.

The sideliners are also taking a reasonable amount of pleasure in the fact that the violators of the 18th Amendment are being brought before the bar to answer for their contempt for the law. It has been amusing lately to see the hurried consultations, the trips here and there made hurriedly in automobiles—nobody seems to know where and care less. The fact is just this. A number of search warrants were issued and some of them have been exercised by the sheriff and trusty deputies, and the results show that the search warrants were not issued in vain.

Stills and booze are being brought in and "bailers" are working overtime. Consternation seems to reign supreme among the clan, and its a picnic, pure and simple to watch.

It is noted that good citizens—that is to say lawabiding citizens are not called upon to give bail for their appearance at the court of justice, and to the good citizen there is a source of satisfaction just in that, if nothing more, to say nothing of being able to traverse the streets of a given community, look every man in the eye and tell him to "go south."

And, too, good citizenship gives each and every man that right. A good citizen does not have to apologize for being on earth. That is the principal reason many good citizens are on earth. They have not given up to bootleggers and their damnable rotgut. They are alive, well and independent for just that reason. They glory in the fact, too.

It don't make any difference whether a man likes being looked at as an undesirable citizen or not. People usually get, in the course of time, what is coming to them. A man who makes a practice of breaking the laws of the United States of America will sooner or later get caught. When the finals come, he can declare to himself that he is not a good citizen. Whether he is honest with himself or no, he knows that his friends know the truth.

Bootleggers are not confined to Chariton County. They are in every state in America. But very few communities can be found where whisky or its substitutes cannot be procured if one is known to be "right." This all shows that in America that are a whole bunch of undesirable citizens.

A Scandal-Monger to Jail—From St. Louis Daily Times. The scandal-monger has at last been called to account. Miss Alice Thornton of New York, who whispered a tale that caused one man to kill another, is in jail charged with being an accessory to the crime. From occupying the limelight as a self-styled virtuous aid in cleaning up domestic disagreements, Miss Thornton finds herself compelled to take the responsibility for things she admitted she told. It is justice that is bringing about this situation. Too often—almost invariably, in fact—the scandal spreader remains in a safe place and feasts upon the trouble resulting from the stories set along. If more talebearers had been brought to face the consequences of their mischief making, we should have fewer talebearers. It is not probable that Miss Alice Thornton will be convicted of murder in any degree. She is getting a wholesome lesson, however, and one which no doubt can be depended upon to still her troublesome tongue in the future. It is to be hoped that the course of the Eastern prosecutor may spur more public officials to provide at least temporary quarters for poison retailers.

The Milan Standard is rejoicing that the bond issue in Milan carried recently, and in last week's paper, has the following: "The Milan Standard is certainly glad the bond issue carried and that Milan and its citizens are not entirely dead. Sullivan County is one of the best counties in the state and Milan is a good town, as someone remarked to the editor the other day "Milan is one of the best towns in the state," in spite of the citizens who try to hold it back by voting and talking against everything progressive that comes up. If the citizens in Milan do not wake up and put the town among other progressive towns, where it properly belongs the live business men of the town will be compelled to pack up their stocks of goods and ship them to some other town where REAL LIVE PEOPLE LIVE."

The RECALL. What a word with which to flirt! Some great municipalities in time past have used the recall to dispossess certain officials who were not doing their duty, and who still, nevertheless had the nerve to attempt to, and in many cases, did continue drawing their pay. The recall is distinctly, lately a western state institution, having been employed in Washington and also in Montana. In all cases, however, it filled the bill in removing undesirables from office. It might not be a bad thing to have the recall in Missouri. However, impeachment proceedings are left open to the clamor of public approval, so what's the difference whether it is called the recall or something else.

Just why a man should be looked down upon because he is fearless and has the courage to stand up for his convictions, and more especially when these convictions are on the side of law and enforcement of law seems strange to the sideliners. It is a fact, however that a man who is not afraid, a man who does not see fit to drink rotgut whisky is "on the outside." It seems that he is in a class by himself—and, he is.

The easiest way does not always pay. Witness the different people who are now facing court trials for bootlegging. Sure, making and peddling bootleg whisky is one of the easiest ways. In the long run it does not pay.

Editorially the Monroe County Appeal asks if you have a government permit for making wine.

DRESS OF SATIN CREPE

One of the new aspirants for favor this fall appears in a pretty dress of satin crepe embroidered with silk in self color. Its bodice suggests fitted lines and the skirt follows the circular style found among those sponsored by high authorities. It has a girde of black beads and the sleeves point with pride to a facing of crepe de chine, in a contrasting color.
